Inflation cogitation: 'bubble gum up 1¢'

Second-graders see ravages of inflation in terms of loss of buying power for toys, candy and sugary cereal. Their solutions? Don't break your toys, form car pools.

While their parents struggle with balancing inflation-riddled budgets, inflation to second graders at Rex Reeves Elementary School here means fewer Christmas gifts and less sugar on their morning cereal.

A group of second graders from the four second grade classes at the school visited with The News last week about inflation and its causes and proved they know the problem on their own terms.

Patricia Voelm, grinning to reveal two missing teeth, summed it up: "Everything is going up high."

"I won't have as much sugary cereal," predicted Walter LaBrie.

Monte Staton provided a graphic illustration of the problems of inflation when he noted that "last year some dressing cost in the cents and now it costs in the dollars."

Bubble gum, notes Vanessa Cole, has gone up from a penny to 2 cents.

"And, candy in the candy machine is up five cents," LaBrie laments.

Steven Phillips indicated the high price of candy is not his only concern. "Mother wants us to cut back on presents (at Christmas)," he said.

And, apparently his mother is not alone, because the second-graders agreed they may face a Christmas with fewer goodies this year due to inflation.

Vanessa noted why: "Sally bought this little doll and last year they got it for about $25 and now you can get it for about $35."

The why of inflation also received the scrutiny of the second-graders, but they were not able to put their fingers on the exact cause of the problem.

"There's a shortage of everything," said one exasperated youngster.

Another suggested the gasoline shortage was the culprit since it takes gas "to make food and stuff."

Walter suggested the price of wheat is high because of hailstorms.

If the second-graders are unsure of the causes of inflation, they do have some insight as to how they can help stop it.

"I'm not wasting paper," Walter said proudly. "If I have some left on a tablet then I write on the back."

"If you make a mistake or something you should try to correct it instead of throwing it away and Another wildcat gas well is being drilled in Randall County.

Arkla Exploration Co. of Shreveport, La., has started drilling on a gas well about seven miles west of Canyon just off U.S. 60 on property owned by Henry Skypala.

Planned depth of the well is 8400 feet and drilling should take about 30 days to complete.

The new well is in an area which has seen past drilling activity, but an area which has yet to produce a paying well.

The first gas well to be drilled in Randall County in about five years, one located on property owned by Dr. George Powers northeast of Canyon, has been plugged after Pan Eastern Exploration Co. of Oklahoma City found no production.

Jay Hunt, a spokesman for Pan Eastern, said the well has been plugged because "it didn't look like there was anything there at all."

Hunt said he is not sure whether the Oklahoma firm plans other wells in Randall County. The company has several other leases in the same area, about two miles southeast of the Camp Don Harrington Boy Scout camp.

Petroleum exploration companies have shown little interest in the area around the new Skypala well since the late 1950s and early 1960s when several gas wells were drilled in the area.

One long-time observer of the petroleum industry's interest in Randall County said an exploration firm drilled a wildcat gas well about five miles north of the Skypala property about 13 years ago. He said the well produced a small amount of gas but not enough to pay.

Several surface wells were drilled in the Umbarger area 25 to 30 years ago but showed no production. One shallow well showed no production south of Buffalo Lake about 15 years ago.

Another area of interest for exploration operations in the mid 1950s to early 1960s was southeast of Canyon, but again no significant production was found in those areas.

Drilling on the Powers well was begun by Pan Eastern in early September. It was to have been drilled to a depth of 8400 feet, but drilling was halted at about the 8200-foot level.

No wells have been drilled in Randall County since Shell Oil Co. drilled a wildcat just east of Canyon on property owned by Dr. Charles Nester.

That well was the first to be drilled since the search which produced no results in the 50s and early

Rep. Price blasts press

U.S. Congressman Bob Price launched a broad attack on the national and area press on a campaign stop here Thursday, criticizing the U.S. Supreme Court for its rejection of a newspaper fairness doctrine, and blasting Amarillo and Wichita Falls newspapers for slanted and unfair reporting.

Price, who faces Democratic challenger Jack Hightower in the Nov. 5 general election, blasted the news media for using slanted writing, innuendo and inaccuracies as political weapons.

Prefacing his remarks before a student audience on the West Texas State University campus with a pledge that "I'm for freedom of the press," Price ran through a long list of abuses he feels the press has perpetrated not only on national figures but on him personally.

Without making reference to the journalist he was aiming at, Price said "in Watergate we had the experience of a person who never did anything in his life peddling petty diatribe."

From Watergate, Price went to his own personal relations with news media in the 13th Congressional District.

He said the Wichita Falls newspaper, run by a man he termed a strong Democrat, accused him recently of trying to get a job for one of his relatives recently in a federal office.

"I made a normal inquiry (about the job)," he said. "I just asked what might be available."

The downstate paper, Price said, did a disservice to the public by slanting the news of Price's alleged efforts to obtain a job for his cousin.

Price then turned to the Amarillo Globe-News and asked students if they thought it fair for the newspaper to print a story which said Price had received illegal campaign contributions from two area banks.

"They destroyed my credibility," he said. "What they said was that I was a crook. They said I'd accepted contributions that were illegal."

While the congressman noted that the Amarillo paper had run a retraction of the story involving his campaign contributions and expenditures, he said many people probably didn't see the retraction.

Sen. Jack Hightower

Hightower urges reviews

'want to believe we have people in positions of responsibility who are looking ahead and planning ahead.'

State Sen. Jack Hightower, on his last leg of a campaign for U.S. Congressman from this district, advocated Thursday morning the establishment by Congress of a systematic and regular review of the hundreds of federal agencies and departments to determine if they are still needed.

Hightower, a Democrat facing incumbent Bob Price in the Nov. 5 general election, made what will probably be a final swing through Canyon Thursday and spoke to students at West Texas State University.

Focusing primarily on the nation's economic ills, Hightower said he believes Congress can and should set up a system to review the purpose and workings of each federal agency at least every 10 years.

His call for creation of such a system was presented to students as an alternative to what he termed the "meat-axe" approach to Congressional perusal of the federal budget requests.

'can't use an axe'

"You can't go in with an axe and cut this out of the Department of Defense or this department or that," he said.

Nevertheless, he noted, there should be nothing so sacred in the federal budget that it cannot bear strong scrutiny and perhaps face the shears.

Hightower called for a balanced federal budget, citing it is a must to aid in the fight toward economic stability in this country.

While terming President Ford's economic proposals as probably ineffective, Hightower said he would not pursue the other extreme and advocate the use of strong artificial controls on economic sectors.

'surtax is no help'

The 5 per cent surtax suggested by the President recently as a step toward control of inflation was criticized by Hightower as another element which will simply fuel the fires of inflation.

"It is my opinion that a 5 per cent surtax will contribute to inflation rather than do anything about controlling inflation," he said. "Corporations and business are going to pass that increase on."

He was also critical of the President's proposals that Americans voluntarily curtail spending, eat less and drive less.

"My wife has been telling me for a long time I need to eat less," he said with a smile. "We're all going to want to continue to eat so to say we should eat less is no good solution to the problem."

Likewise, Hightower said, the people of the 13th Congressional District will find it hard to drive less.

"How are we going to change our life style nationwide to make a significant dent in inflation?" he asked.

The congressional candidate presented no suggestions, however, for a solution to the problem. He did tell the students he would not opt for strict controls on the American economy.

"In a free market you put controls on one place and it will get out of balance some place else," he said.

The solution, Hightower said, should come from a hard working and hard-thinking Congress, a Congress with its eye on the future.

"We keep having crises and people are upset and concerned," he said. "I want to believe we have people in positions of responsibility who are looking ahead and planning ahead."

Area farm bureau urges open mart

Resolutions passed Thursday night by members of the Randall County Farm Bureau call for a wide range of actions at the state and federal level, including federal restraint from precipitating abrupt changes in the world commodity market.

Joe Turpin, president of the local chapter, said the resolutions will be forwarded for consideration at the state association's convention Dec. 1 in Dallas.

One resolution passed by the local membership expresses the Randall County Farm Bureau's belief in free markets world-wide and asks the federal government to refrain from abrupt embargoes precipitating problems in the nation's commodity market. It calls for open import channels.

Turpin said the resolution is in response to the action several weeks ago by President Ford to halt the sale of a large amount of wheat to foreign countries. He said the resolution is aimed at urging a halt in this type of action.

At the same time, Turpin said, the local members remained consistent.

Poff says Lockhart using report to begin smear and gain publicity

Bryan Poff of Canyon, candidate for the 47th District Court bench, charged his opponent with developing a "smear campaign" to gain publicity Saturday morning just a day after Connally Lockhart charged that Poff engaged in certain campaign improprieties.

Poff responded to a Lockhart press statement issued Friday charging that Poff had used his state representative legislative report to bolster his campaign for the judgeship. Lockhart is Republican candidate for the seat.

"I am shocked that my Republican opponent would claim my latest newsletter was a violation of any law," Poff said. "My opponent knows full well that it has been my policy during my four years in office to issue numerous newsletters to better inform the people on what is going on in Austin. The newsletters are not sent to every person in Amarillo and Canyon, but in fact are sent to a very limited number of people whose names are on one of my mailing lists."

Lockhart charged that Poff sent out a legislative report (Poff is currently state representative of this district) which was paid for and mailed at government expense, but which promotes Poff's campaign.

"My Republican opponent has been on my mailing list for four years and he has never seen fit to complain before," Poff replied. "It appears he is only complaining now in an effort to get publicity for his campaign."

Lockhart charges that Poff is using state money for campaign purposes because the newsletter tells Poff constituents that he hopes to continue serving them as judge, and then notes the need for strong judicial officials.

"Such smear campaign tactics are unbecoming of a candidate for district judge," Poff said. "and are of themselves violations of the Judicial Canon of Ethics."

Lockhart, in a letter, asked Dist. Atty. George Dowlen to investigate the newsletter.

"I would welcome an investigation of not only my campaign practices but also those of my opponent," Poff said.

Dowlen put a damper on any investigation right now.

He said Friday he will not begin an investigation into the charges until after the Nov. 5 general election, and then only if one of the candidates again requests such an investigation. If requested, the investigation would encompass the campaign practices of both candidates, he said.

He said his policy has for many years been to wait until following the election to delve into such charges.

"Rarely does an election go by that we do not hear someone raise allegations of improprieties in campaigning," Dowlen said.

WIN buttons really work

Those WIN buttons President Ford's been talking about must have some effect on inflation.

Roland Black, probably the only person in town with one of the red and white buttons promoted by the President before a nation-wide television audience, is manager of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce and he keeps up with the prices on promotional material like the WIN button.

Black says the button seems to have accomplished a super job on inflation-bugged button firms.

In 1973, he notes, a button like the Presidential WIN button would have cost 12 cents each if 1000 were ordered.

At the start of 1974, the price of the buttons went down three cents each to 9 cents for an order of 1000.

And, an Eastern firm is now hawking the WIN buttons for a mere 7 cents each.

That, notes Black, is pretty good deflation.

Utility regulation

Really a question of practicality, says Loudder

Opposing forces were set to collide this weekend in Dallas at a statewide meeting of the Texas Municipal League and Canyon City Manager George Loudder expected to be caught in the middle of the fight.

The knotty and highly controversial issue of regulation of public utilities — the gas company, the electric company and the telephone company — was due to be resolved one way or another as the TML membership was scheduled to pass a resolution either for a state-level regulatory body or against establishment of such a body.

However, the voting goes today, the Texas legislature is sure to be confronted with at least one measure calling for creation of a regulation commission and the resolution passed today by the TML delegates will represent the organization's stand on the issue before the legislature.

For Loudder, who is a member of the resolutions committee of the TML, the committee which must submit a proposal for a resolution to the whole body today, the battle of utility regulation seems to have been played in his office.

He reported before leaving for Dallas that he's received numerous phone calls from city officials throughout the state and has also been visited by utility company representatives.

The problem the TML confronts today involves not only a philosophical, but a practical question, according to Loudder.

Currently, rates charged by the electric company, the gas company and the telephone company are not regulated by an state-level agency.

Cities are given the authority in Texas to regulate the utilities within their city limits and do so through the use of franchise agreements and occasional rate studies and hearings.

Appeal from the city decision on a rate request goes to district court and the Texas Railroad Commission.

As the system currently works, Loudder noted, the utility in question presents a petition for a rate increase to the city commission and along with the request submits justifications for the hike based on operating costs and capital expenditures.

The commission is then placed in a difficult position of having to determine whether the rate hike is fair and equitable both to the citizens and to the company.

The difficulty comes, Loudder said, in trying to determine whether a rate increase request is equitable and this difficulty is compounded by the lack of legislative guidance on what is a fair rate of return or profit for a utilities company and how to determine that rate from unproven information.

Making such a determination is "a difficult and costly" procedure, the city manager said.

"No city I know of, from the smallest to the largest, has a staff experienced in rate regulation," he said.

Thus, most cities must look to consulting firms to provide study of the rate hike request and this, too, can prove to be an expensive process.

So expensive in fact that Panhandle residents have just recently witnessed the formation of an organization designed exclusively to deal with rate requests from Pioneer Natural Gas Co.

The West Texas Utilities Committee, composed of many cities on the gas company's West Texas system, has met several times in recent years to pool money and expertise to determine the fairness of rate increases.

Acting in unison, the cities can make effective study of increase proposals while spreading the cost of that determination over many cities.

The opportunity for joint action is, however, not available when cities are dealing with

Our World Injustice Rampant

By ANN BROWN
No civilization can exist without justice. Justice cannot survive without laws. And it's impossible to enforce laws without punishment.

Let's consider briefly one facet of one link in the chain essential to civilization: justice. Millions of Americans were appalled Oct. 15 when hundreds of beautiful, helpless baby calves were shot to death and pushed into a common ditch in front of a television camera.

(Of course, communists have been shooting people and shoving them in common graves for years, and we offer them "most-favored-nation" status. And unborn babies are being killed by the hundreds of thousands—but those are a couple of other stories.)

America is apparently unaware that the killing of baby calves has been practiced on dairy farms for years. During the Depression, many farmers' only cash income came from the milk of a few cows; they were convinced they could not afford to feed it to calves.

And those calves were seldom mercifully shot (bullets cost money); they were knocked in the head with a hammer, and few of them died under only one blow.

Several farmers got into the cattle business by taking the baby calves they could not bear to see their neighbors kill. They were convicted it was unjust to take all the milk from a calf's mother without sharing it with the calf for whom it was intended.

The federal government was the biggest promoter of the cattle slaughter during the Depression. They would pay $10 for any cow that could walk—or be hauled—to the place of execution ($10 was a fortune at that time). And the government could afford bullets. Naturally the relatively few farmers who preferred to go hungry with their cattle than see them destroyed came out much better eventually.

Justice always triumphs; however, it usually takes a while. No one contends there is any justice in killing baby calves. But who has committed the greater wrong, the farmers who shot the calves, or the government that serves each of its employees 2 slices of the national pie while 5 private workers have to exist on the remaining 4?

Few farmers ever voluntarily leave the farm if they can make a living on it. Yet farmers have dwindled from 50 percent of Americans at the turn of the century to 4.9 percent at the latest count.

And while our farmers mortgage their farms in a desperate attempt to hold on until they can sell their produce above cost of production, our government pours out money in a steady stream to every nation on the globe that has its hand out.

Who produced the world's wealth our government so freely gives away? (One thing is certain; it was not the government.)

Many Americans seem to think money is the sole product of government printing presses. It was the sincere desire to enlighten those people that prompted the dairymen to kill their calves under the glare of TV cameras. Ordinarily, they sell them or give them away; if neither is possible, they unobtrusively knock them in the head and throw them into the hog pen.

Is it any more unjust for a farmer to take milk that belongs to the calf than it is for him to be forced to sell his grain and cattle for less than it cost him to produce them?

Many Americans have gazed with awe upon the ruins of ancient Greece and Rome, two of the 19 civilizations history records as having already fallen.

The once-fertile plain occupied by bustling city states became the dead sea—the lowest, most useless spot on earth. Justice failed and cities fell.

Injustice is rampant in many facets of Americana. However, the muggings on dark city streets by a few thugs are nothing compared to the muggings our farmers are getting in broad daylight by 96.1 percent of Americans, and almost all the foreign countries.

An Illogical Decision

By CARROLL WILSON
Randall County school trustees made a woefully bad decision last week, a decision based not in logic but in a desire to remove the monkey from their collective backs.

When the trustees voted 3-2 to allow a 176-acre development tract in South Amarillo to be detached from the Canyon School District and annexed by the Amarillo School District, they definitely set a precedent which will have far-reaching ramifications.

That they made such a decision on the reasons they made public just before they voted is testimony to the fact they simply grasped any reason to remove themselves from the pressure of facing the issue squarely.

Don Marsh, an Amarillo businessman, certainly made no attempts to hide his feelings about the annexation issue even a year ago. Marsh has down the line been for annexation of Canyon district land by Amarillo.

In public, he says his stand is based on the desire to do what is best for the children involved, those children who live in fewer than half dozen houses on fewer than five acres of land in the 176-acre development.

While an admirable stand, it does not account for the fact that Marsh voted to okay the annexation of the entire development—not just the small acreage owned by the affected families and their children.

It is illogical to approve the annexation of an entire development, when the annexation of a small portion of that development would serve the purpose of "doing what's best for the children."

Nor is Joe Turpin's reasoning any more logical.

Turpin, who supplied another yes vote for the annexation, told the audience he was casting his vote in the affirmative because he'd once before found himself in a situation similar to the situation of the five families who wanted annexation.

Empathy or sympathy was not tempered with cool thinking or logic. Again, Turpin's reasoning cannot account for the fact that he voted to approve the annexation of a large development tract when annexation of a few acres would have served the purpose of returning the favor vicariously to five families who had no connection with whatever situation Turpin found himself in years ago.

J. D. Barker, a long-time Canyon resident who made the motion for annexation of the property, gave another of those reasons for his motion and favorable vote certainly unexplained by logic or cool thinking.

Barker told the audience he was swayed to vote yes by the sad tale (a familiar one to those country folks who have ridden a school bus) of a little girl who had to sit in the floor of the bus during the trip to Canyon.

Barker, I think, expressed the real reason for the yes votes on the panel when he pushed for the vote on Tuesday even when faced with the possibility that the annexation is illegal.

He said, in effect, that the trustees wanted to be rid of the problem.

Unfortunately for those of us in the Canyon School District, the school trustee's problems have only begun.

Pete Dallas, who skirted the question of whether the annexation would set a precedent with future impact while speaking to trustees in Canyon, told Amarillo Chamber of Commerce officials last week the action will most certainly set a precedent—and one the Amarillo School Board is no doubt rejoicing in.

The trustee decision laid the groundwork for future developments, no matter how small or large, to seek annexation into Amarillo.

Where will it stop? The Amarillo School Board has gone on record urging developers to pursue annexation into the Amarillo district. The board has for years been working behind the scenes to urge such action. That they built Amarillo High School within a stone's throw of the Canyon-Amarillo school boundary line is mute testimony to that fact.

That they will now actively pursue more annexations is only logical and apparent.

The trustee action has thrown planning by the Canyon School Board into a tailspin. How do you plan for construction of a new junior high, a new high school or a new elementary school if any new development in the north part of the district is urged and cajoled into coming into the Amarillo school district?

It is naive to believe as apparently the Randall County trustees do that they have not set a precedent. How will they turn down future annexation petitions? They simply cannot—at the risk of being accused of arbitrary and capricious consideration.

Dallas jokingly referred to Amarillo as "the colossus from the north" in a session last week. His assessment of Amarillo is no joke.

The Amarillo School Board was playing for big stakes in the O'Dell subdivision annexation. That fact is not apparent when only the public actions by the board are considered.

But, it became increasingly apparent in the waning months of the campaign to have the acreage annexed.

Influential Amarilloans, for example, told influential Canyon residents that if the acreage were not annexed by Amarillo and if the trustees did not acquiesce in such action, Amarillo would do all in its power to ensure Canyon was never chosen as a site for new industry.

A public relations campaign, pursued through the stultified giant Amarillo newspaper, posed another threat—that reluctance to allow annexation of the land would mean an end to the growth of Amarillo to the south. The fact that one major developer wants his property in the Canyon School District and has said he believes that fact is an asset was not mentioned.

The colossus from the north has become a voracious menace to those of us who want our children educated in Canyon schools, a menace fed on the expediency of three Randall County School Trustees.

Sacred Music For Public Wednesday

A sacred music concert featuring the Men's Chorus from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth will be presented for the public at no charge on Wednesday, Oct. 30, at 11 a.m. in the auditorium of the Fine Arts Building at West Texas State University.

The 32-voice Men's Chorus is one of several touring groups from the seminary's School of Church Music and will be appearing as a part of a four-day musical tour throughout Texas.

All persons interested in the program are invited to attend. A variety of musical periods will be included in the program which will be presented later that afternoon at the Baptist General Convention of Texas being conducted in Amarillo.

One Act Play

Members of Carroll Killingsworth's drama class at Canyon High School will present "Don Quixote" Thursday night in the high school auditorium.

The play will be presented for the Spanish classes. A Mexican food dinner will be served the students prior to the play. There is no admission charge and, according to Killingsworth, the public is invited to attend the play.

Letters to the editor Let Amarillo Grow To The North

Dear Carroll,
I had so much to say at the public hearing on the annexation Thursday night. However, when I got up to say it my mind went blank. I still feel a need to get it off my chest so I'm writing you. It seems to me that those people on Shawnee are either willingly or unknowingly being used by real estate developers or other persons with money to spearhead a plan to gradually take over sections of the CIDS.

The people on Shawnee complained loudly about the busing situation. I believe the term used was "forcible busing." (This term makes me wonder if they don't have their school districts mixed up.) No child has to ride the bus if his parents can furnish other transportation. The unnamed terrible things happened to their children at the beginning of school when all of the bus drivers were having a time with their changes. There is no reason why one or two of the parents can't ride on the bus a few days to see what the trouble is. The driver has a right to refuse transportation to any trouble makers.

The bus situation seems to be their main complaint. If the school board could see fit to work out the bus situation with these people, maybe they could relax and enjoy the benefits their children will receive from our excellent school system.

They also said they didn't want their children traveling 15 miles to Canyon for Jr. High and high school. The majority of their children won't even be ready for that trip for 4 or 5 years. By then we will have a middle or jr. high and high school but here on Hollywood Rd.

In quite plain terms they stated that this annexation question was none of our business because it concerned THEIR children and THEIR tax dollars. Well, they are very wrong. It is very much our concern. Our main fear is that if the area should go to Amarillo, it will set a precedent for other developers to start clamoring for annexation all along our northern boundary.

In time there will be developments close to South Georgia school. There is plenty of land close to Southlawn, Alice Landergin, Oakdale, and Canopek. There is no reason NOT to believe that the Amarillo School District might not get just a little greedy once a precedent is set with the Odell development.

There are some lovely and very expensive homes out here. There is also an industrial development between Western and Washington. I'm sure the taxes off these properties look very inviting to these people.

I was born and raised in Amarillo as was my father. My husband and I moved out here 13 years ago because Amarillo was growing so. The classrooms at Avondale were crowded, even then. We wanted to be in the CIDS and still be close to my husband's work. We have NEVER regretted our decision. Yes, we have grieved about the distance between our home and the activities our sons, five of them, have participated in. One summer we put 6000 miles on our car so they could play Little League ball. Once our older sons started driving it eased our schedule a lot. We have always felt they were safer driving on the F. Way than driving into Amarillo. In bad, slick weather, they rode the bus and were safe. Our sons have friends all over the Canyon School District.

The teachers have been wonderful. Even after so many people started moving in and the classrooms started filling up, the teachers, counselors and principals would take the time to personally know our sons, to counsel and work with them. It is not a cold and impersonal school system like those in the larger cities.

There was a 13-year old boy killed on his way to school in Amarillo this morning. They called principals from 3 or 4 jr. highs and none of them could identify him. I just don't believe this would be possible if this should have happened to one of our Canyon students.

We do hope the Randall County Trustees will hold firm and not give Amarillo anything. We feel sure the Canyon School Board will keep our faith and not budge from their position.

My suggestion to Amarillo is to build north, northwest, northeast, or east for the growth of their town and the good of their citizens.

Thank you for hearing me out.

A Cat's Tale

Dr. Brent Lynch
Attorney-at-Law
Canyon, Texas

Sir:
I am in need of professional legal advice on a serious matter. A recital of the facts in the case follows:

A Ms. David West lives approximately two (2) blocks from us. (I use the term "ap." proximately two (2) blks." because in Hunsley Hills distance is not measured in blocks.)

Ms. West was bitten by a Black Cat on Thurs., Oct. 17th, 1974. Anno. Dom. When this news reached me I reported to Ms. West that we owned a Black Cat. An arrangement was reached for me to deliver my Black Cat to Ms. West for her examination, in order to determine if my Black Cat was guilty of biting Ms. West.

Canyon Church Events

The third in a series of sermons on "A Model For Man" will be the sermon for morning worship at First Presbyterian Church of Canyon this morning, Sunday, at 10 a.m. when Rev. Baldwin J. Stribling speaks on the topic "Form and Freedom."

The Baptist General Convention of Texas is being held at the Civic Center Coliseum in Amarillo October 28-31 with a number of local folks representing the Baptist faith in Canyon churches expected to participate.

Moss Richardson Circle of the United Methodist Church is scheduled to meet with Mrs. D. M. Foster, 1007 5th Avenue, Tuesday, October 29, at 2 p.m.

"Divine Guidance—A Community in Motion" will be the focus of worship today, October 27, at the morning services of the First Christian Church. The Children's Choir of the church will be presenting special music for the service and Rev. Terry White, minister, will be speaking at 10:50 a.m.

The Methodist Student Center will be the setting for a "Halloween Party" for university students at 5 p.m. today, October 27.

My Black Cat became upset during the journey and she bit me. This incident required medical treatment (and expense).

Ms. West subsequently came to my house to identify my Black Cat (since I was physically unable to continue to her house). She was uncertain about my Black Cat's guilt. The police authority of Canyon was notified and my Black Cat was arrested and detained.

On Monday following, Ms. West positively identified another Black Cat as the guilty party. This was duly corroborated by a second witness. I immediately proceeded to the quarters of Dr. J. L. Markham, D.M.V., to spring my Black Cat.

Dr. Markham has contractual relations with the City of Canyon to retain custody of Black Cats pending investigation of crime. However he was uncertain as to who was financially liable for his professional service in the case of an innocent Black Cat.

I agreed to pay his fee (under protest) in order to spring my Black Cat. (My wife was experiencing extreme mental anguish because of my Black Cat's problems—not because I was suffering great pain and loss of blood.)

After springing my Black Cat I then proceeded to confront Hon. J. Pat Stephens, City Commissioner. I demanded a prompt refund for my expenses or I would prepare a suit against the City for violating my Black Cat's civil rights.

Commissioner Stephens promptly (in the manner of politicians) proceeded to pass the buck to City Manager Louder.

I propose to drop my Black Cat's suit providing one or more of the following conditions are met:

(1) The Chief Executive of Canyon issue an unconditional pardon for all crimes committed or which may have been committed by my Black Cat; or

(2) The Chief Executive proclaim a limited amnesty for all Black Cats who are willing to earn their way back into society. Recognizing this may be held to discriminate against Cats of other color, I am willing to concede to amnesty for all Cats since our national policy is one of "benign neglect" for Blacks; or

(3) The City agree to destroy all records of criminality of my Black Cat including:
(a) Police blotters, (b) papers, (c) documents, and (d) tapes.

Respectfully yours,
David R. Matthis

Policemen Need Degrees, Office-holder Says

College education is an essential for good law enforcement officers, the state's newest member of the Board of Certification for the Texas Corrections Association believes.

Dr. Brent T. Lynch, an associate professor of political science at West Texas State University, has been appointed to a seven-year term on the board, which sets certification standards for the state's law enforcement officers. Lynch, a former assistant attorney general in Utah and executive director of the Board of Pardons in that state, said he believes strongly that policemen should be motivated to attend college.

National standards call for all law enforcement officers to hold a baccalaureate degree by the late 1970s and for most of them to attain a masters degree in the 1980s.

"A liberal arts education is not a luxury," Lynch said following announcement of his appointment. "It is a necessity as the bulwark for the framework of American constitutional government."

Lynch said one factor in the low efficiency of the state's criminal justice system lies in the fact that many law enforcement officers now have less than a college education.

The courts, law enforcement and correctional institution operation must be integrated, he believes.

Policemen and sheriff's deputies, he said, must be aware of the many facets of personal behavior, of the nature of criminal law and of the function of the criminal justice system within the American scheme.

"The requirement for law enforcement officers to have a baccalaureate degree will increase the quality of law enforcement," he said, "because it gives them perspectives of the constitutional values of the American system of government."

The requirement will also increase the officers' understanding of people and their motivations.

Lynch is one of eight members on the board.

At WTSU, he heads the school's criminal justice program, recently approved for a baccalaureate degree offering by the state higher education coordinating board.

The university currently offers certification for criminal justice students.

Utility. . .

Southwestern Public Service Co. or Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Louder said the rates for each company are figured on a local basis and several cities could find no common ground for studying a rate increase.

In dealing with the electric company and the phone company, then, he said, most cities must hire a consultant and ask for a recommendation.

"Generally all you can ask him to do is verify the data submitted," he said. The probability of a full investigation into the justification for higher rates is nil in Texas for cities, Louder said, due to the costs for such an investigation.

Even if cities could afford to challenge the utilities companies on their rate proposals, Louder believes the legislature has not adequately equipped city government with the tools needed to make a sure investigation.

"The lack of legislation leaves the cities without any real criteria for regulation," he said. "What is the rate of return to be based on? Only thing we have now is one judicial case."

The problem faced by cities in financing investigations into rate increase proposals for utility companies is only a part of the problem.

The other part is the fact faced by Texas farmers, ranchers and rural homeowners who must deal individually with utility companies and have not even a city government to study a rate hike proposal for them.

Because there is no state regulating agency, those in rural areas are unable unless they join together to challenge rate increases.

The plight of the cities and of the rural dwellers has led some in the state to call for formation of a state agency to regulate utilities.

The resolution they planned to submit this weekend to the TML delegates notes the current inadequacies pointed out by Louder, but also notes that Texas is the only one of the 50 states which provides no agency for the regulation of utilities.

The resolution calls for the TML to endorse the concept of utility regulation at the state level and pledges the TML to actively support the drafting and passage of legislation which would foster such an agency.

The legislation, the resolution says, should provide for regulation of utilities servicing unincorporated areas, regulation of intrastate long-distance telephone service, regulation of privately owned utilities within municipalities at the option of the municipality concerned, and adequate staffing and funding.

Louder said he tends to support such a resolution, which would allow cities to retain their regulatory responsibility but which would also allow cities to, on an optional basis, refer rate increases for study and decision to the state agency.

A resolution has also been proposed for passage and support of the TML against utility regulation.

The resolution says that good utility service depends on efficiency of operation and ability to raise money to expand and the trend in states with regulatory bodies has been toward a lowering of bond ratings and a decrease of the value of utility stocks. It also says the people of Texas "have, historically, in the past enjoyed and presently continue to enjoy utility rates substantially lower than the majority of states with utility commissions and substantially lower than the national average."

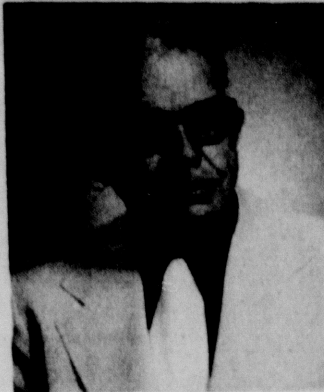

The resolution says that cities should continue to exercise full control over the utilities rather than abdicate their rights and powers to a state agency "unless and until it is firmly established that it would be in the public interest to do so."

60s. The increase in drilling activity in Randall County, one of the few counties in Texas which has never had a producing gas or oil well, has been attributed to the demand for petroleum resources and the need for expansion in petroleum reserves.

One West Texas State University geologist has told The News that Randall County is situated over an underground basin formation much like the Anadarko basin in the northeastern portion of the Panhandle. The Anadarko basin is a rich petroleum-producing formation.

"If you're for free trade, you can't be for a restriction on imports," he said.

Another resolution passed Thursday night is aimed at addressing an anticipated problem. The resolution "recommends that local people who would be affected by rural zoning be represented on any zoning or land use committees."

Turpin said the Farm Bureau anticipates that, as in the past, another land use or zoning bill will be brought before the Texas Legislature this spring. The resolution aims to stop passage of such legislation, but barring that action, it is aimed to ensure that producers and farmers are given places on such boards.

None of the nine resolutions passed by the local members specifically address the problems of inflation or other economic woes, even though Turpin said inflation is probably a chief concern of the membership.

"We just couldn't think of any solutions on it, really," he said. Other resolutions passed by the members call for:

*a recommendation that imported dairy products meet the same standards for purity as domestically produced dairy products, and all imported products be tested rather than just sampled.

*the reinstatement of the Bracero program to provide needed farm labor *legislation requiring proof of ownership of cattle by registered man-made mark *enactment of legislation which would enforce control measures to stop growth and spread of field bindweed and other noxious weed and grass on all public lands and road and railroad right-of-way *a thorough study be made and positive evidence of harm be found before additives or medication are banned from the production of meat. "We do not believe that zero tolerances in meat inspection are realistic in condemning meat."

*work to be done toward exemption from safety inspection law requirements which apply to tread depth on trucks with 20-inch diameter or larger wheels *enactment of legislation to prevent the aerial spraying of 2-4D.

starting over," said Michael Carlson.

Michael also suggested that another way to beat inflation is "to store up on supplies and then you won't have to buy stuff for awhile."

Monte said children "should try not to break their toys because then you have to get new ones. If you save them then you won't have to spend so much money."

Another youngster suggested a halt in the use of gasoline and Monte suggested car pooling.

Are the kids optimistic? "I could be either," Carlson said. "We may not be able to get enough stuff or we could get some."

tion. The U.S. Supreme Court, in deciding a case earlier this year involving a Miami, Fla., newspaper and a political candidate who sued because the paper declined to give him free space to reply to an editorial, struck down a century-old Florida law which required newspapers to give up such space when critical of a political candidate.

Price criticized the court for its decision. He said journalists should also set up committees to police themselves and their profession.

Responding to student questions, Price focused primarily on agriculture and the state of the nation's economy during his 1½ hour session.

He said an Emergency Livestock Loan bill he sponsored in Congress was watered down so much that it has had little impact on relieving the plight of hard-hit farmers and ranchers in this area.

More than $100 million has been assigned to Texas for loans for those hit hard by the problems of the livestock market, he said, but only 129 such loans have been made.

Responding to a question concerning his position on the sale of grain to communist countries, Price expressed approval of such sales.

"There are those who feel it is wrong to sell grain to communist countries," he said, "because through the years the Russians and their satellite countries and the Chinese have been thought to be our mortal enemies. They still are our mortal enemies in ideology, otherwise they wouldn't be spending half of their gross national product for weapons."

"I feel it's always a better policy to try to trade with these countries as long as we don't give them weapons. If we can get a good price it helps us economically. It's wiser to have a trade policy than a war policy."

The congressman predicted defeat of the GI Bill as it now stands before Congress. He said the President has already promised to veto the measure, which provides a 23 per cent monthly hike in GI education allowances.

Price called for strong measures to deal with major food chains and canning monopolies who he claimed are the middle men who are making hay from inflation while prices to the farmer remain depressed.

He said the government should investigate the monopolistic situation in the food processing industry and then take trust-busting action.

He noted that he's never been asked to pursue such an investigation following an election.

audience listened to brief assessments of various aspects of West Texas State University at another Chamber of Commerce membership breakfast.

Sponsored by the chamber to focus on the university and its many programs, the breakfast drew a crowd of more than 70 persons, including major administrative officials from WTSU.

Dr. Lloyd I. Watkins, university president, said enrollment at WTSU has apparently stabilized after several years of wavering.

"It looks to have hit bottom of the rung and is on the way back up," Watkins said.

He expressed optimism, too, over the various university varsity athletic programs, including the surprising Buffaloes, who carried a winning season record to Utah State for another game Saturday night.

While WTSU did not gain approval for establishment of a school of pharmacy when the Coordinating Board, Texas
College and University System met earlier this month, Watkins said approval was given seven new programs which will enhance the academic program at the university.

Dr. Charles Smallwood, dean of the school of agriculture, reported to the audience that his school enrolled its second largest freshman class this fall and is anticipating a move into the old Science Building which has been renovated to house the agriculture and nursing schools.

Dr. Ted Freidell, dean of the school of arts and sciences, expressed enthusiasm for the new Bachelor of General Studies degree approved by the coordinating board for offering by the university. He said he expects the degree program to appeal to many senior citizens and younger people who do not plan to attend college as a stepping stone to a later career. He said he anticipates significant growth in the area of criminal justice certification, another new program okayed by the coordinating board for implementation.

Dr. Stuart Lawrance, acting dean of the school of business, told the audience a search committee is still reviewing possible candidates for the position for the construction of a new Fine Arts Building on campus.
Architects, he said, are now working on plans for the structure. He said he hopes bids might be let for the job next spring. The school has experienced a 14 per cent increase in enrollment this year over last year.

Dr. David Wheeler, dean of the graduate school, reported that 1206 students are pursuing graduate level work at the university.

The breakfast was sponsored by Cooper's Thriftway of Canyon.

Double Ring Marriage Vows Read For Kathy Walker-Greg Lehnick

Double ring marriage vows for Miss Kathy Gail Walker and Greg Alvin Lehnick were confirmed in ceremonies at Bykota Baptist Church in Amarillo Friday evening, October 25.

Danny Lucas of Bykota Baptist Church performed the ceremony amidst daisies and mums which decorated each side of the altar with complementing candelabra bearing seven tapers on each side.

Sue Hite Club Meets Monday

"An Electro-Comp Synthesizer" will be the subject of Dr. Joseph Nelson Monday afternoon, Oct. 28, when he is guest speaker for the Sue Hite Club of Canyon at the Fine Arts Building, Room 219, at 3:45 p.m.

Dr. Nelson, a member of the fine arts faculty, is slated to discuss the physical properties of sound, functions of the synthesizer and demonstrate what the synthesizer can do in the area of music.

Mrs. Ernest Bernier played traditional wedding marches and accompanied the vocalists, Kay Ward and Paul Stookey, at the organ.

For her wedding the bride selected a white formal length wedding gown of brocade satin accented with sheer ruffling on the bodice and at the hemline. The wedding gown featured a high waistline and long, full, sheer sleeves caught at the wrist with a sheer band. Her tulle wedding veil was held to a Juliet headpiece with an attached chapel train. Daisies intermingled with baby's breath formed the bridal bouquet.

The bridal attendants wore dresses of dotted swiss as Mrs. Robert Friemel, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and Ginger Miller served as the maid of honor. Mrs. Friemel was gowned in orange and Miss Miller wore yellow. Julie Ortega attended the bride as the flower girl.

Kevin Pettit was best man with Jerry Lehnick, brother of the bridegroom, as the groomsmen. Sharing ushering duties were Robert Friemel and Randy Breiting.

The couple was honored with a reception in Fellowship Hall following the ceremony, and will be establishing their home at 2609 7th Avenue in Canyon.

Employed with the receiving department of Sears-Roebuck and Company, the bride is a graduate of Palo Duro High School in Amarillo. The bridegroom graduated from Canyon High School and is employed at Dobbs Corporation in Canyon.

Some To Close For Vet Day

Some governmental offices will be closed and some will be open in Canyon Monday.

County offices, federal offices and the city's two banks will close in observance of Veteran's Day.

City workers will work as usual on Monday. City schools and West Texas State University will also conduct classes on Monday.

Most businesses here are expected to be open.

Bewitching Pumpkin Treats

The season of the 'pumpkin' is upon us with Halloween coming up Thursday, October 31, as trick-or-treating goblins make their rounds from house to house. They'll be filling their sacks with pre-packaged candies, popcorn balls and candied apples and having lots of fun!

A few 'pumpkin' treats for all the family that Ghostly evening might include the following recipes (which can also be saved for use at Thanksgiving and Christmas feasting).

One of the first things about pumpkin (when not purchased pureed in the can) is that the Jack-o-Lanterns of Halloween fun can and should be saved by preparing the pumpkin into a puree for use in holiday baking during the upcoming months.

To prepare and puree the fresh jack-o-lantern first wash and dry the pumpkin and cut into quarters. Remove the stringy fiber and seed and cut into one-inch pieces. Place in large baking dish or roasting pan (but do NOT add water) and cover with aluminum foil. Bake in oven at 350 degrees for one hour then remove cooked pumpkin pieces with slotted spoon and place in foodmill over bowl. Mash slightly and allow to drain about ten minutes. Pour drain water from bowl and then turn the pumpkin through the mill. (If pumpkin puree is very watery, place the puree in sieve and allow more water to drain off.)

PUMPKIN ORANGE CRUNCH PIE

Pumpkin custard boasts a crunch, baked-on topping—

- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 1/2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 11-pound can (2 cups) pumpkin
- 1 1/4-ounce can (1 2/3 cups) evaporated milk
- 2 slightly beaten eggs
- 1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup chopped California walnuts
- 2 teaspoons grated orange peel

Combine 1 cup brown sugar, cornstarch, pie spice, salt, and pumpkin. Stir in milk and eggs. Pour into pastry shell. (Crimp edges high — filling is generous.) Bake at 400° for 40 minutes. Meanwhile, combine remaining ingredients. Spoon over pie; return to oven and bake 5 to 10 minutes more or till knife comes out clean. Cool.

CREAMY PUMPKIN WHIP PIE

Whip one 3 1/2-ounce package vanilla whipped dessert mix with 1/2 cup cold milk. Add 1 cup canned pumpkin and 1/2 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice; beat. Prepare one 2-ounce package dessert topping mix with 1/2 cup cold milk and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Fold into pumpkin mixture. Pour into 9-inch graham-cracker crust. Chill.

GRAHAM-CRACKER CRUST

Combine 1 1/2 cups fine graham-cracker crumbs (18 crackers), 1/4 cup sugar, and 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine; mix well. Press firmly in unbaked 9-inch pie plate. Chill until set, about 45 minutes, before filling.

AUTUMN CUSTARD

Like pumpkin pie, but fewer calories —

- 2 cups canned or mashed cooked pumpkin
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves

3 slightly beaten eggs
2 cups reliquified nonfat dry milk*
Noncaloric sweetener equivalent to 8 tablespoons (1/2 cup) sugar*

Combine pumpkin, salt, and spices; add remaining ingredients. Pour into nine 5-ounce custard cups and set in shallow pan; fill pan to 1 inch with hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350°) about 40 minutes, or till mixture doesn't adhere to a knife. Serve warm or chilled. Top with whipped dry milk sweetener, if desired. Calories per serving: 60.

*Follow package or label directions.

CARAMEL PUMPKIN FLAN

- 1 1/4 cups granulated sugar
- 1 cup canned pumpkin, solid pack, or 1 cup mashed cooked pumpkin
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 pint light cream
- 5 eggs, lightly beaten
- 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
- Ground nutmeg
- Brown Edge Wafers

Heat 1 cup sugar slowly in heavy skillet, stirring constantly with a wooden spoon until sugar melts, is free from lumps, and turns a light caramel color. Pour into a heated 7-inch round, 2-inch high tin or plain 5-cup mold. Turn the mold round and round until inside is well coated. Let the caramel set. Meanwhile, combine pumpkin with remaining 1/4 cup sugar and next four ingredients. Add cream to eggs and blend into pumpkin mixture. Pour into caramel-coated tin. Set in a pan of hot water. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350° F.) for 65 to 70 minutes or until a knife inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from oven and lift out of hot water. Cool and chill. To serve, run a spatula around the sides of pan; turn out onto serving plate. Serve with whipped cream, lightly sprinkled with nutmeg and Brown Edge Wafers. Makes 8 (about 2/3 cup) servings.

HOLIDAY PIE

Two holiday favorites baked in one pie —
1 1/2 cups canned mincemeat
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
1 1-pound 2-ounce can pumpkin pie filling
1/4 cup orange juice
1 cup evaporated milk
1/2 teaspoon grated orange peel
Whipped cream or dessert topping

Spread mincemeat evenly in bottom of pastry shell. Prepare pumpkin pie filling, following label directions, but substitute the orange juice and evaporated milk for the liquid called for; stir in peel. Pour over mincemeat in shell.

Bake in a hot oven (400°) for about 45 minutes or till knife inserted halfway between center and edge of filling comes out clean. Cool. Serve garnished with rosettes of whipped cream or whipped dessert topping.

PUMPKIN CAKE

- 3 cups unsifted cake flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 4 eggs
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup corn oil
- 2 cups pureed cooked or canned pumpkin
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 recipe Glaze

Stir together flour, baking powder, cinnamon and salt. In large mixing bowl with electric mixer at high speed, beat eggs until light and frothy. Gradually add sugar, beating until thick and ivory colored. Slowly pour in corn oil, beating constantly. With mixer at low speed, add dry ingredients alternately with pumpkin; beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Beat until smooth after each addition. Stir in nuts. Pour into ungreased 10 x 4-inch tube pan. Bake in 325° F oven 60 to 70 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 1/2 hour, remove and cool completely on wire rack. Brush with Glaze when cool. Makes 1 (10-inch) tube cake.

Glaze: In small saucepan, stir together 1/2 cup light corn syrup, 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind and 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger. Bring to boil over medium heat. Remove from heat. Makes 1/2 cup.

PUMPKIN BREAD

- 3 1/2 cups unsifted flour
- 2 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 2 cups pureed cooked or canned pumpkin
- 1 cup corn oil
- 2/3 cup water
- 4 eggs

Grease and flour 2 (9 x 5 x 3-inch) loaf pans. Stir together in large bowl flour, sugar, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Stir together pumpkin, corn oil and water. Add eggs, 1 at a time, beating well after each addition. Make well in center of flour mixture. Add pumpkin mixture and stir until flour is moistened. Pour into prepared pans. Bake in 350° F oven 1 hour or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from oven. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pans. Cool on rack. When completely cool, wrap in plastic film or foil and store overnight. Serve with Golden Spread. Makes 2 loaves.

Golden Spread: Stir 1/2 cup margarine until smooth and fluffy. Gradually add 1/2 cup dark corn syrup, beating well. Makes 1 cup.

PUMPKIN PECAN PIE

- 1 unbaked (9-inch) pastry shell
- 3 eggs
- 1 1/2 cups pureed cooked or canned pumpkin
- 1/2 cup dark corn syrup
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup chopped pecans

In mixing bowl, beat eggs until frothy. Stir in pumpkin, corn syrup, sugar, cinnamon and salt. Pour into pastry shell. Sprinkle with pecans. Bake in 350° F oven 50 to 60 minutes, or until knife inserted halfway between center and edge comes out clean. Chill. Serve topped with whipped cream, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

'Miss WTSU' Crown Changes On Friday

As part of the upcoming West Texas State University Homecoming celebration, a new Miss WTSU will be selected from among the most beautiful girls on campus. As the official University hostess, the lucky co-ed will attend many University functions and represent West Texas State in the Miss Texas

Pageant held next summer. Last year's reigning queen was Miss Sandra Skinner, a junior Social Work major from Iowa Park. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Skinner of 1512 Douglas, Iowa Park, and competed in the Miss Texas Pageant in July of '74.

Veteran Washington Pundit Sees Close Congress Race

A Washington newspaper columnist said Thursday the congressional race between U.S. Rep. Bob Price and State Sen. Jack Hightower is one of three close races in Texas being watched to gauge public reaction to the Republican administration.

Margaret Mayer, Washington correspondent for the Dallas Times-Herald, was in Canyon Thursday to gauge student reaction to Price, who spoke during the late morning to a crowd of students in the West Texas State University Student Union Building.

Ms. Mayer said from her soundings around the 13th Congressional District, it appears the Price-Hightower race will be a close one come Nov. 5.

The gray-haired newswoman said in many ways the 13th District is not typical of the country as a whole and related the feeling toward President Ford and his economic policies in the Eastern portion of the nation.

She noted that unemployment in the north part of Texas is extremely low when compared to other areas of the country. But, she said, she's finding a wait-and-see attitude about Ford and his economic plans both in her travels here and in Washington.

Less anxiety exists in this district than in Washington, she said, where the feeling is that stern measures are required to stop inflation.

Public attitude in the East, she said, seems to be that Ford's economic proposals are not tough enough to deal effectively with the nation's troubles.

Energy for the winter is also a concern to the Eastern seaboard, she said, although energy will probably not be the problem it was last winter during the Arab oil embargo. The cost of fuel in the East has become a major expenditure item for every family budget.

Nevertheless, while Easterners and Westerners appear to be nervous about the economy, there seems to be a general apathy in regard to Congressional elections this year, she reported.

"Both parties are concerned that people are not very much interested this year," she said.

A University of Texas graduate, Ms. Mayer began her newspaper career on the Austin American-Statesman in the 1940s and then moved to the Dallas Times-Herald in 1951.

Buff's Basketball Looking To Successful Season

Eight returning lettermen including five returning starters give Ron Ekker's Buffalo basketball team the edge of experience as they begin workouts in preparation for the 1974-75 basketball season.

The season will begin with the November 22 game against the Brazilian Nationals.

Three of the returning starters are all-star candidates — Reggie Ramey, Joe Cooley and Howard Taylor.

All-Star Candidates

Ramey is a 6-8 center from Philadelphia, Pa. He is a 2-year varsity letterman. Ramey ranks as the 14th leading scorer in school history with a two-year total of 834 points, an average of 17.4 points per game. Extremely consistent, he was out of double figures only once in 26 games last year. Ramey led WT in scoring with 17.5 average and in rebounding with 8.7. He had a high game of 32 points in a 85-73 upset win over Wichita State last year. He is the oldest Buff on the roster. He served two years as a military policeman. Ramey is 23. He was named second team, All-Missouri Valley Conference as a junior.

Ekker says that Ramey is an exceptional shooter for a big man and can shoot extremely well under pressure. "After exceptional freshman and sophomore seasons, we are looking for this to be Reggie's finest year," according to Ekker.

Cooley, a 6-4, one-year letterman, was a second team, All-MVC selection last year at the guard position. Cooley pulled down 19 rebounds in a game against New Mexico Highlands for the team's top one-game performance on the boards. A 12.8 scoring average last year ranked Cooley third on the team behind Ramey and Taylor. Cooley's high point game was 35 against New Mexico Highlands. Cooley is rated as the finest rebounding guard in the MVC, averaging 7.6 boards per game last year. He was second only to Ramey. Cooley transferred to WT from Southeastern Community College in Burlington, Ia., where he averaged 20 points per game as a sophomore.

Ekker states that Cooley is one of the most intense players he has coached. Cooley provides tremendous leadership in offense and is a fine defensive player according to Ekker. Ekker said that Cooley rebounds well offensively and defensively.

Taylor is a 6-2 guard from Como, Mississippi. He is a one-year letterman. Taylor averaged 15.8 points per game last year as a sophomore. Taylor was runnerup to Ramey in Buff statistics, but a strong finish buoyed hopes for a strong senior season. He averaged over 25 points per game for WT's last four contests last year, including a high game of 32 against Tulsa. An excellent shot, Taylor averaged 49.1 per cent on his field goal attempts and 71.2 from the free throw line. Taylor came through with double figure scoring in 21 of WT's 26 games. He was steady defensively, and was the only starter not to foul out of a game during the 73-74 season. Taylor was seventh leading scorer in junior college circles with a 27.8 average as a sophomore at Northwest Mississippi junior college.

Other returning starters include Dana Albright and Dallas Smith. Returning lettermen who were not starters include Mark Mayberry, Jim Conner and Bruce Taylor.

Larry Jarzombek and Bobby Anderson who were on the squad last year also return.

Four newcomers will add spice to the life of the Buff team — Eugene Smith of Southwestern, Oklahoma junior college, Maurice Cheeks of Chicago, Illinois, William Dize of Chicago and Frank Stingo of Fairmont, West Virginia.

Individual Players
DANA ALBRIGHT is one of the five returning starters off the 1974 Buff unit. Albright averaged 3.5 points and 3.4 rebounds in 23 games last year. His high game was a 12-point effort in WT's 85-73 win over Wichita State in the Civic Center. His best rebounding performance came in Denton against North Texas State when he pulled down nine rebounds.

Albright is a 6-6½ senior forward from Hays, Kansas. Albright came to WT from Garden City Junior College where he led the Bronco Busters as an All-Kansas Jayhawk Conference star for two years. His JC scoring average was 20 points a game.

BOBBY ANDERSON is a 5-10 junior from El Paso. He split his time last year between the varsity and the junior varsity, averaging 8.8 points per game for the jayvee unit in six games. His top scoring effort was his 21-point night against the Panhandle State junior varsity in an 83-58 win. As a freshman two years ago, he averaged 8.9 markers a game for the jayvee as a regular starter.

Anderson played his high school ball for Alvis Glidewell at El Paso Austin.

KARL BRADLEY is a 6-0 guard from Fort Worth. Bradley as a freshman is one of the four rookies on the Buff varsity roster. He earned prep All-American honors at Fort Worth's O. D. Wyatt High School. He was a three year letterman averaging 18 points per game all three years. His final two years, he earned first team all-district honors.

Funeral Services Held For Area Resident

Mrs. Ona Stephenson, 91, of Happy died Wednesday night at Olsen Manor Convalescence Home in Amarillo. She had been at the home for 16 months. She moved to Happy from Canyon in 1915. Born in Melissa, Texas, on January 3, 1883, she was married to James Howard Stephenson at Cordell, Oklahoma in 1907. She was a member of the First Christian Church of Tulsa, a charter member of the Woman's Study Club in Happy and a 50-year member of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Funeral services were held Friday at 3 p.m. at the First Baptist Church of Happy with the Rev. Paul Hill, pastor of the church, officiating. Burial was in the Happy Cemetery.

Pall bearers were Jack Frost, George Rahlfs, O. H. Rahlfs, Harry Edmonds, Cone Johnson and John Frank Toles. Honorary pall bearers were members of the Women's Study Club.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Odie Hudson of Happy and Mrs. Clyde Spear of Amarillo, two sisters, Mrs. Sheldon H. Wilson and Mrs. H. R. Charles of Fort Worth, and two grandsons.

She was preceded in death by one son, James Harold Stephenson, in 1964 and by her husband, James Howard Stephenson, on 1968.

MAURICE CHEEKS is a 6-0 guard from Chicago, Illinois. A teammate of William Dize at Chicago's DuSable High, Cheeks could see plenty of playing time this year at guard. He averaged 19 points per game as an all-city, all-area and all-conference prep star. His DuSable team won its sectional championships both his junior and senior seasons.

Cheeks is a freshman. JIM CONNER is a 6-4 sophomore who plays both at the guard position and as a forward. Conner earned his varsity letter his freshman year by contributing 22 points and nine rebounds in 12 appearances. For the jayvees, he averaged 10.6 points and 6.8 rebounds. Conner is from Albuquerque, N. M.

WILLIAM DIZE is a 6-5 forward, freshman from Chicago. He is one of the most highly recruited players in the country. Dize could step right in and challenge for a starting slot at forward during his freshman season. Dize averaged 18 points and 18 rebounds per game for a two-year sectional winner in high school.

Dize was All-American picked by "Basketball Weekly" and he was also picked for all-city and all-section honors. His best game was against Lane Tech in the city playoffs when he pumped in 33 points and grabbed 27 rebounds.

MARK MAYBERRY is a 6-1 guard. Mayberry, a sophomore, divided time between the varsity and junior varsity last year. He earned a varsity letter as a freshman in 18 games. He saved his best efforts for the best competition with his best point production, six points, coming on the road against Bradley and Louisville. Mayberry is the brother of John Mayberry, first baseman for the Kansas City Royals.

DALLAS SMITH is a 6-10 junior from Des Moines, Iowa. Smith plays as either center or forward. Last year, he averaged 8.1 points and 7.2 rebounds per game. He is the biggest player on the WT roster this year. His quickness and strength are improved this year.

Smith's best nights are spread out over last year. His high scoring night was his 14-point game against Adams State. His high of 16 rebounds came against Hardin-Simmons. His best defensive effort may have been when he dominated the play of New Mexico State's Roland Grant in WT's 69-63 win at the Civic Center.

EUGENE SMITH, a 6-5 forward from Hobbs, N.M., is a sophomore at WT. He is the only junior college transfer on the WT roster. As a freshman at

Eighth Grade Purple Lose On Scoreboard

Canyon Junior High eighth grade football team was behind on the scoreboard at the end of the game last Thursday at LaPlata Junior High but the statistics were in the locals favor. Canyon lost the game 8-0. Canyon had 14 first downs to four for LaPlata. Canyon had 306 total yards to 87 for LaPlata. Larry Whitsen, quarterback for Canyon, completed 9 out of 11 passes. Eddie Clement, halfback, gained 109 yards rushing and completed four of five passes.

Oklahoma City's Southwestern Junior College, Smith was the most valuable player and all-conference for Southwestern with a 20.3 scoring and 13.0 rebounding average.

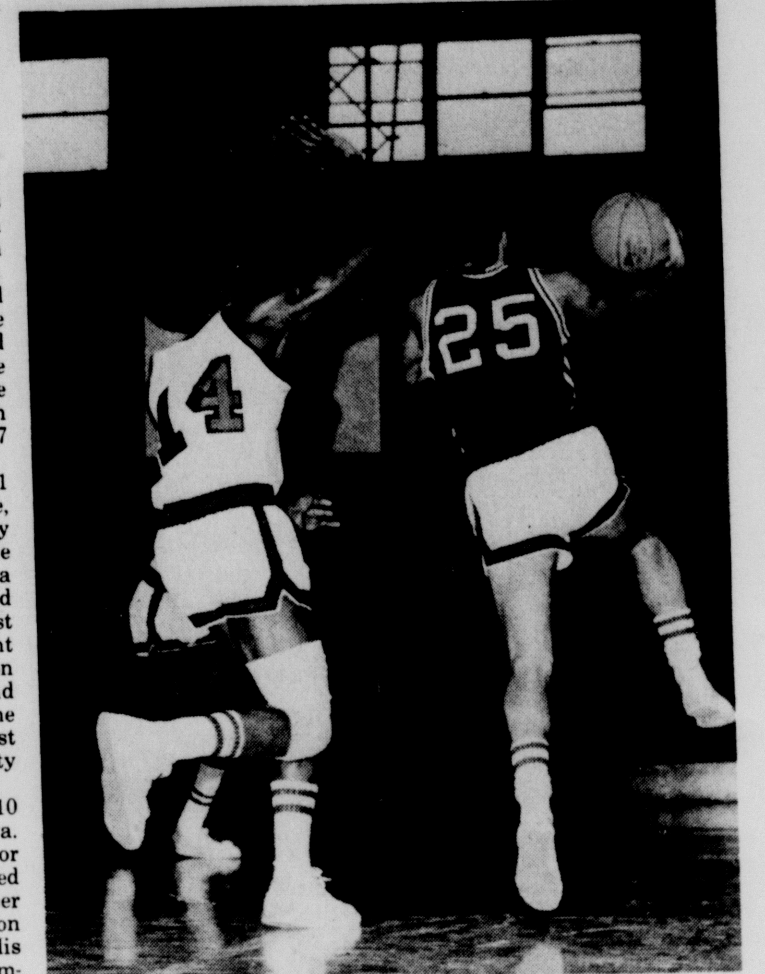

FRANK STINGO is a 5-10 guard from Fairmont, West Virginia. Stingo was the top scorer in Marion County history with a 32-point average. Both his prep football and basketball teams were conference champions. He was an all-state quarterback with 29 touchdown passes for his career.

BRUCE TAYLOR is a 6-6 forward from Cleveland, Ohio. He is a sophomore at WT. Taylor saw action in 12 varsity games in addition to having the highest scoring average, 17.2, in the '74 junior varsity. His best game was against New Mexico Highlands when he scored six points and grabbed six rebounds. In junior varsity play, he pumped in 28 points against Vaughn Realty.

Taylor is the all-time leading rebounder at St. Joseph High in Cleveland and is a two-time all-city player.

MARK WIBLE is a 6-6 junior from Fort Worth. He was a valuable member of the Buff junior varsity the past two years. Last year for the jayvees, he was the second leading rebounder with a 5.4 average on the boards and 8.1 points. His top game was a 19-point and 10-rebound evening against Foran Construction.

Bob Anderson, 25, goes up for a lay-up against the defense of Joe Cooley during the scrimmage session held during press day last Tuesday. Cooley is one of the All-Conference contenders

Utah State Aggies Down Buffs In Logan Outing

LOGAN, Utah — Utah State scored twice in the final seven minutes of play here Saturday to pull a 21-16 win out of the fire in the Aggies' homecoming against West Texas State.

Jerry Cox and Louis Giammona scored touchdowns to erase a 16-7 Buff lead which came mainly on the strength of kicker Bruce Wyre's right leg.

Wyre, who had missed four consecutive field goal attempts on Tartan turf, kicked three from 30 yards out as the Buffs looked well on their way to the first win ever against the Utah

State team.

The junior from Amarillo booted a 32-yard field goal with just five seconds to go in the first half to give West Texas a 10-7 lead at intermission and then added 30- and 41-yard boots in the second half for the big lead.

But after that last touchdown Utah State drove the ball 80 yards in 12 plays with Cox getting the final three to pull Utah State within 2 at 16-14 with 6:56 to go in the game.

Two big plays in the air kept that drive alive. Quarterback Bill Swanson completed a 40-yard bomb to Kelly Deist and then later connected on an 18-yard effort to Kory Coles to the Buff's 7. Two plays later Cox was in.

West Texas couldn't move the ball after the kick-off and Utah

State began a drive after an Eddie Richardson punt to their own 34. Again it was the air game that did the Buffs in as a Swanson to Coles completion netted 28 of the 66 yards on the drive.

West Texas launched their last drive and failed before it could get started when a Tully Blanchard pass was intercepted by the Utags. The Buffaloes got on the board first in the second period at the end of a 68-yard drive with Ricky Rice getting the final yard and the points.

Utah State tied it six minutes later when Swanson carried from the 6 around right end. Wyre's first field goal gave the Buffs the lead at the intermission.

Blanchard, who had thrown well the two previous weeks against Idaho and Tulsa was virtually shut out by Utah State. He completed only 1 of 7 passes for 12 yards and had three intercepted.

West Texas had 250 yards rushing and Blanchard was the main man there. He picked up 92 yards in 14 carries.

Giammona led Utah State stats with 125 yards rushing. Swanson was 9 of 13 passing for 170 yards for the difference.

Next week the Buffs celebrate their homecoming against Lamar at Kimbrough Stadium. Tickets are on sale at the ticket office.

WT Women's Volleyball On Road

West Texas State will try to come home with the first place trophy this weekend as they travel to Denton to participate in the North Texas State University Invitational Tournament.

The Buffs will have a tough test in the round robin tournament but should gain good experience for the West Zone Tournament November 1st and 2nd in Abilene which will send the first and second place teams to the state tourney in Denton.

Other teams in the tourney include Texas A&M, North Texas State University, Midwestern University, Southern Methodist University, and the University of Oklahoma.

Coach Suzanne Blair will be unable to make the trip due to illness but predicts a strong finish for the Buffs. "We are a better team than our 10-8-4 record shows," states Dr. Blair. "We have just had a hard time of playing up to our capability all of the time."

The next home game will be against Odessa College November 5th at 6:30 in the WT fieldhouse.

Seventh Grade Purple Wins; White Loses

The seventh grade Purple football team downed the LaPlata team 20-0 Tuesday afternoon. The White team lost to Coronado 36-8.

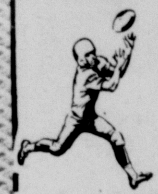

The seventh grade Purple team is now 2-1 for the season and will have a chance at the district championship when they play Plainview Coronado Tuesday.

Touchdowns were scored by Ross Byrd, Jeff McKay and Tim Glenn for the Purple team.

Larry Morris scored the lone White team TD.

Sideline Views

By JIM ROGERS

Money continues to come in for the Kelly Forehand Fund. Benefit football and basketball games plus a two-night smoker by the local boxing club has aided the fund.

It is good to know that the New Orleans Saints also sent a sum of money to aid the Forehand family in the expenses encountered due to Kelly's injury.

A week's lay-off for the Canyon Eagles has given the Eagle coaching staff an opportunity to look at players in positions that are new to some.

Those looked at are players who will be attempting to fill the positions held by Bob Lee and Steve McCormick who are both out for the remainder of the season due to injuries.

This has been an injury prone year for the Eagles. It is hoped by coaching staff, fans and players that the injuries will stop for a while. If the Eagles can get by Perryton next Friday night, it will be good sailing on a fairly smooth sea. That is, if the players do not become over-confident.

The Eagle backfield has matured into a unified and smoothly run outfit. Garre LaGrone has done a fine job commanding the play on the field. Jimmy Ward and Adrian Foil are doing an outstanding job carrying the ball for the purple and white. The offensive line continues to open holes for the running backs. If the line can be tough against Perryton, chances of winning will be strong.

On defense, the Eagles must come through. The Rangers from Perryton like to run the ball down the throat of the opponents defense. Perryton will especially like to use this method when they meet the Eagles in Frank Kimbrough Memorial Stadium next Friday.

With McCormick out, the Rangers will probably feel that it will be smooth sailing through the Eagle line. They may have a surprise when they try.

The Eagles will have their hands full Friday and will need all the fan support they can get.

Buff basketball for the coming year should be interesting to watch. The Buffs are coming out this year with eight returning lettermen which should add much to the color of Missouri Valley basketball in the Panhandle.

MVC basketball is probably the toughest and most colorful basketball in the central and eastern parts of the nation. MVC basketball is televised in areas where MVC schools are not to be found.

This writer remembers as a child watching MVC basketball on television on Saturday nights in the Dallas area. One game in particular remains in the mind. Bradley and Louisville played for the conference title and went into three overtimes. A real "barn burner."

The Panhandle should see several "barn burning" basketball games this year with the players found on the WT team.

JV Downs Hereford

Unable to score in the first half of play, the Canyon High junior varsity came on strong in the second half to defeat the Hereford JV 14-0 Thursday night at the Eagle field.

The first TD of the night came on a 60-yard run by quarterback Ricky Cooper. The PAT was no good.

The second TD came when Parsell Chandler covered a Hereford fumble in the end zone. The PAT was no good.

A two-point safety gave the JV 14 points when Dave Johnson caught a Hereford runner in the end zone.

Ronny Whitney had 102 yards rushing plus an 80-yard kickoff return offensively and three unassisted and two assisted tackles plus one interception defensively. Coach Bob Schneider commended the play of Whitney in the Thursday night game.

Schneider also stated that Jonathan Hull and Cooper did a fine job defensively for the JV.

Hull had 43 yards rushing, five unassisted tackles and three assisted tackles.

Cooper racked up 64 yards rushing, one touchdown, one pass completion for 20 yards, a punting average of 42 yards and a kickoff average of 55.

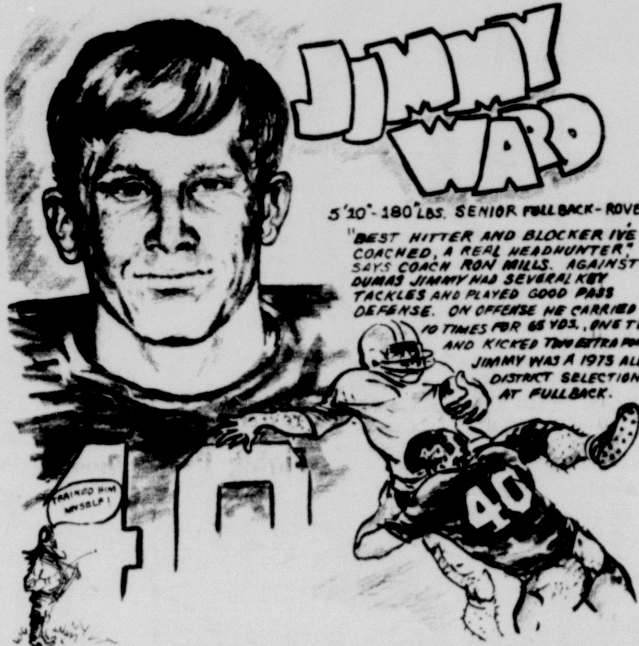

Matt Madewell gained 20 yards rushing and has six unassisted tackles.

John Prater had nine unassisted tackles, intercepted one pass and ran the ball back 60 yards plus one pass reception for 20 yards.

It doesn't take long for word to spread among hunters throughout the country concerning a new hunting hotspot. The Texas Panhandle is fast becoming known as such, maybe not because of an excess of printed information about it, but by hunter contact through conversation.

A trip through pheasant country on opening weekend reveals a sight very similar to national guard maneuvers across the country side. Fields full of hunters walking in single file down rows of stubble corn. Twenty men strong, nervously awaiting the explosion of wings near the end of the field is an unusual sight any time of the year in the Panhandle, but December. Predawn caravans of cars filled with hunters headed toward a favorite patch of maize stubble represents something that might be seen in the pheasant rich midwestern states, but here in the Panhandle something very new.

Cars bearing hunters from all parts of Texas and New Mexico converge on the cities of Friona, Hereford and other communities to find accommodations and they are well received. A hunter or traveller is lucky to find a vacancy if he hasn't made reservations well in advance.

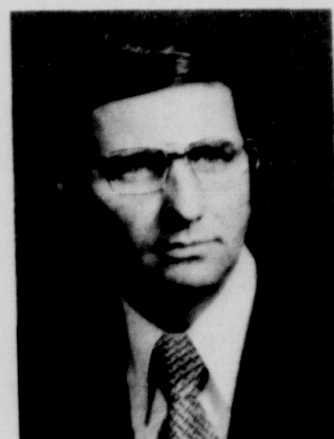

As in all hunting areas there are those who are careless in their regard to land owners. Some hunt where they please and disregard posted signs completely. Some litter the land with trash. Some run over electric fences and new crops with their vehicles. Even though a minority of the hunters are classed as such, they can cause much resentment among landowners, and all sportsmen suffer the consequences of this carelessness.

This growing carelessness by some is leading to an organized landowner reaction in these hunting areas of controlled hunting through strict regulation.

Regardless of this, opening day of pheasant season is a thrilling moment for all hunters in the Panhandle, and the chance to challenge the explosive ringneck in his own habitat is leading more and more hunters into the icy fields in December.

Guided hunts for all Panhandle big game as well as waterfowl and pheasant hunts can be scheduled by calling 655-9259. Texas Waterfowl and Big Game Guided Hunts. Gary Conner, 18 Greenwood, Canyon, Texas 79015.

Old time butcher shop quality
...at Ideal Thrif-T Prices!

Remember the butcher of the old-time butcher shop? The pride and care he took with the meat he sold?

Well, that kind of pride and care are back!
Because behind every cut of Butcher
Block Meats there stands an Ideal Master Butcher—77 in all. Every last one of them as knowing, as skillful as the big, friendly man who once owned the old-time corner butcher shop.

Choose Butcher Block Meats for savings and satisfaction at Ideal!
